Hi All...

I just finished talking to the owner of Grizzly Turf.

I explained our street median application. He would recommend the Everglade Spring for that purpose. It will have little foot traffic and look great from passing vehicles. He said it should have a 20 year life. The highest quality turf quoted to us was the Diamond Pro Spring. It features a "w" shaped blade / fiber that better withstands foot traffic and close inspection. It is the most dense of all of the alternative materials that we were quoted. The middle grade, Diamond Light Spring, is less dense but also intended to withstand foot traffic.

He is sending a sample of the Everglade Spring. We should have it next week.

All of the turf installations we were quoted will be back filled with silica sand, not rubber "crumbs," which have a rap for being allegedly carcinogenic.

I explained that we were a non-profit entity and money was tight. He "didn't say 'no' but promised to look at the numbers again and get back to me next week." I told him we'd be a good reference for additional work in our area.

BTW, the Marque sample is another high end, "elite" grade equivalent to the Diamond Pro Spring. He would not recommend it for our purpose.

There you have it. Let me know of any continuing questions. Thank you.

Looking at the website, it does appear that the "marquee" product is different from the one quoted for $7.00. How easy would it be to get a swatch of that turf?

See excellent reviews for the company we're considering! Check out the photos, too.
